Additional Functions of the Office of General Counsel

The Legislative Counsel maintains and controls liaison between the Agency and members of Congress, Congressional committees and committee staffs. He is responsible for the coordination, formulation and submission of Agency legislative programs. He also reviews other legislative proposals and advises the Director of Central Intelligence and appropriate Agency officials of proposed legislation affecting the Agency, and is responsible for the development of a coordinated Agency position on such legislation. The Legislative Counsel serves as a personal adviser to the Director on matters pertaining to his personal contacts with the Congress and acts for the Director in these matters when appropriate.
